Brief description of your institution's involvement in the field of sport pedagogy: McGill has the distinct honor of having the first physical education, intramural and organized university athletics program in Canada. While R. Tait McKenzie, and James Naismith are often cited in this history, it was actually Ethel Mary Cartwright who paved the way for physical education in Canada. Today McGill is one of the top universities in the world and continues to be a leader in physical education and sport pedagogy. Although many physical education and sport pedagogy programs in Canada are downsizing, McGill is growing. We have hired two new full time tenure track professors in the past two years. We contribute to both the international literature in journals such as Sport Education and Society, and also nationally in our PHENex journal, as well as our practitioner journal, Physical and Health Education Canada. I have also been the president of our Physical Education Research council over the past 5 years, and have contributed to a growing awareness and hopefully impact of our councils' research program. Lastly, our institution is pushing forward with socio-cultural, historical perspectives, and social justice programming that adheres to reflexive pedagogies with hopes of continuing to position physical education as an integral area in both teacher education and schools.
Brief description of past involvement of your institution in AIESEP activities: Dr. Gordon Bloom, Dr. William Harvey and myself have all been involved in AIESEP in past years and continue to value being connected, and contributing alongside international scholars who are shaping the future of physical education. I was honored with the Young Scholar Award in 2015 and have attended 3 of the past four AIESEP conference. I also have a number of papers accepted for Edinburgh and will be attending the conference in 2018.

Brief description of anticipated future involvement of your institution in AIESEP activities: It would be appropriate to note here

- a) Which of the AIESEP sub committees you would be keen to engage with
- b) Any specific initiative you/your institution would lead as AIESEP Board member

Marketing, Recruitment and Young Scholar Award:

- Given my experience with the Young Scholar Award I can speak to the importance of recognizing and recruiting new scholars who are contributing the field of physical education and sport pedagogy. Given the number of young scholar awards that have now been awarded, it would be interesting to begin thinking about documenting the success, progress, of these winners to showcase the depth and potential future of this organization.

Research and Scientific Committee

- Given that McGill and the University of Alberta are co-hosting the 2021 AIESEP Conference in Banff Canada, being involved in this committee would be imperative in regards to understanding the inner workings of this process.

McGill as 2021 Host – A major upcoming initiative, as mentioned above, is co-hosting the 2021 AIESEP conference. McGill is also hosting the 2019 PHE Canada National Canada Conference, which will provide insight into creating a successful 2021 conference in Banff.
